Army and R.N.W.M.P. Realizing that the police force of the Canadian Pacific was not high enough in standard to correspond with the general high standard of with the general bigh standard of the officers of this company, Mr. George Borr, vice president of the western lines, decided that he western lines, decided that he would raise the standard accordingly. He must have a company of men who would rank equal to the police force of the cities where the company operater. It would have to be composed of a type of men above reproach in sobriety, morality and discipline. There were only two places to get such a body of men; from the limperial army or from the Royal Northwest mounted police. Austher and Another and city or provincial officers wherever possible, and to protect the public is their main chiect. When his royal highness the Governor General of Cenada visited the west two years ago he complimented the management on the excellence of their police force, and he recognized several men on the force by having seen them in the imperial array. It is really an imperial police force, men schooled in rendering all the help in their power for the pracery vation of peace and could be easily solidified into a unit of imperial defense. The uniform, including the cap, is of special design pa-red defense. The uniform, including the cap, is of special design pa-red upon by the vice-president, and many requests have been received from other railways for the pattern. The Canadian Pacific police force is now one of the great outstanding fegtures of that great railway.
